Prestatyn-Dyserth Railway

The railway linked Dyserth and Meliden with the main Chester-Holyhead line at Prestatyn and was used to transport mining and quarrying products from 1869 until the mid 20th century. Passengers were also carried and the train became the lifeline for the local communities and businesses. Trucks were unloaded in Meliden Goods Shed onto waiting horse and carts for delivery in the local area. Locally produced goods were transported on the return trip. You can still see the remains of a loading gauge used to prevent trucks being loaded too high to go under the bridges and tunnels.
